Kathie McDonald-McClure recognized for five outstanding years leading HEN's Health Policy Forum

Kathie McDonald-McClure, partner, Wyatt Tarrant & Combs LLP was recognized for her outstanding service as vice chair of the Health Enterprises Network's Health Policy Forum during the network's annual Holiday Reception.

McDonald-McClure began her position as vice chair in 2009, serving for five years before stepping down from the role in 2014. Professionally, McDonald-McClure is a member of Wyatt Tarrant & Combs' Health Care Practice Group where she concentrates her practice on the regulation of provider arrangements and beneficiary inducements, pharmacy board licensure, secondary payer rules, related payment reforms and healthcare information privacy and security among other areas.

"Kathie's leadership of the Health Policy Forum has been very much appreciated," says Michael P. Muldoon, executive director, Health Enterprises Network, "As vice chair, she has kept the pulse on current health policy issues and health-related legislation and has been an enthusiastic and knowledgeable leader in the exploration of these issues. While all HEN executive committee members' work is appreciated, Kathie has gone beyond the call of duty in her efforts to guide the Health Policy Forum."

The Health Policy Forum is a standing committee of the Health Enterprises Network. The committee's purpose is to create ongoing discussion and to encourage in-depth exploration of local and regional health policies and legislation. It meets quarterly and is open to any investor of the Health Enterprises Network.

The Health Enterprises Network (HEN), a healthcare network for business development, leadership and education, has 1,200 individual representatives from nearly 200 organizations in Kentucky and Southern Indiana. Now serving the entire Commonwealth of Kentucky, the Health Enterprises Network is the most advanced health-related network in the region: leading, organizing and facilitating economic growth.
